EXAMINATION NUMBER QUESTION 1

Font type: Century Gothic, size 12

Main heading: Underline, centre-align

Time management

Getting things done requires having time to do them. Hence, time management is very important because it helps you take charge of your time by avoiding waste or loss of time. When you manage your time well, you are in full control of your life, which also boosts your confidence. You become the person who ensures that things get done. Being organized also gives you the opportunity to make the most of your time.

Paragraph 2: Right-align

Important factors that can help you, as a student, take control of your time are planning and managing your time effectively.

Paragraph 3: Upper case

PLANNING YOUR TIME INVOLVES SETTING GOALS AND CREATING A SCHEDULE TO USE YOUR TIME WISELY. IT HELPS STUDENTS AVOID LAST-MINUTE RUSHES AND ENSURES THEY COMPLETE TASKS EFFICIENTLY.

EXAMPLES OF PLANNING YOUR TIME:

Sub-heading: 'Dashed' underline,

1. Creating a daily or weekly study plan
2. Setting deadlines for assignments
3. Prioritising important tasks
4. Allocating specific time for homework, revision, and relaxation

POOR TIME MANAGEMENT CAN LEAD TO NEGATIVE CONSEQUENCES

1. Poor academic performance

- Missed deadlines for assignments, projects, and homework.
- Inadequate time for studying and exam preparation, leading to lower grades.
- Difficulty keeping up with lessons, causing a knowledge gap.

2. Procrastination and lack of productivity

- Students waste time on distractions (social media, TV, games) instead of studying.
- Tasks pile up, making them harder to complete.
- Leads to a cycle of delaying important work and struggling to catch up.

3. Poor quality of work

- Rushed assignments and last-minute studying result in low-quality output.
- Less time for understanding concepts, leading to shallow learning.
- Increased chances of plagiarism or copying due to lack of preparation
